General

The oncology unit was founded eleven years ago. The unit operates as an outpatient oncology clinic for chemotherapy and/or supporting treatment. In cases requiring oncology hospitalization, patients are hospitalized in the Internal Medicine Departments and/or Hematology Department. Patients requiring radiation treatment are treated at hospitals with radiation clinics, with the Sanz Medical Center–Laniado Hospital unit arranging the appointments and the first meeting with the radiation physicians.

The oncology unit operates in conjunction with the other hospital departments (Internal Medicine, Surgery, Maternity, Urology, etc.).

The unit receives about 350 outpatient visits per month. On an average day, 15-20 of these come for chemotherapy, and 3-6 for follow-up. About twenty new patients are treated each month. The staff is available 24 hours a day. Upon check-in at the unit, the patient is given the private telephone/cellular phone number of a staff member available for phone consultation at any time of the day. The unit's nursing staff assists with problems in accordance with the physical, emotional, social, and economic needs of the patient and family. The medical staff is experienced, sensitive, and professional.

The unit treats breast tumors: ovarian cancer, endometrial cancer, uterine cancer, cervical cancer, and prostate cancer. The unit provides comprehensive care for patients, including diagnosis, treatment, and follow-up. The unit is staffed by highly qualified medical professionals, including oncologists, nurses, and support staff. The unit is committed to providing the highest quality of care to its patients.
